JobRouter and Linkando enter into partnership

Formal online meetings linked to digital business processes / More flexible design of online meetings for companies / Standardization measures planned

Mannheim, September 15, 2021 –JobRouter AG, a globally active manufacturer of an industry-independent low-code digitization platform, and Linkando GmbH, solution provider for conducting formal online meetings, announce their partnership. In the future, JobRouter will complement Linkando's solutions with options for digital process automation as well as electronic signatures and robotic process automation. The cooperation will allow business processes around formal online meetings to be fully digitized. In addition, relevant documents can be permanently archived in a legally compliant manner.

The Corona pandemic has increased the need for legally compliant online conferencing. To digitize business processes that occur before, during or after formal online events, Linkando can now be combined with JobRouter's process automation technology.

Marcus Nagel, Co-CEO of JobRouter AG, explains: "As a technology supplier to Linkando, we are looking forward to offering our joint customers new opportunities through the use of digital processes. Linkando is thus able to digitize relevant processes with an established, market-leading solution and to powerfully complement them thanks to additional technologies such as electronic signatures. The partnership paves the way for clubs, associations, and also companies in industry to drive digitization forward in their organization. On the user side, new options are created on both sides. For example, all participants can sign the minutes electronically directly after a meeting." Volker Wiora, CEO of Linkando GmbH, adds: "We are focusing on a close partnership with JobRouter. All Linkando products can be linked to the digitalization platform. Our customers now have even greater scope to design formal online meetings according to their wishes."

Whether it's invitation management before an event, legally compliant voting rights management during an election, or the minutes at the end of the conference: digital business processes simplify and accelerate these procedures many times over. In order to keep the adaptation effort as low as possible in the future, standardization measures are planned to be able to connect JobRouter and Linkando within the shortest possible time.
